The George Fox School of Business invites applications from established and promising scholars/practitioners who are interested in joining a business school that emphasizes excellence in teaching. The new tenure track positions begin August 15, 2010 and represent a commitment to expand the programs and offerings in response to continuing growth in the George Fox School of Business. The positions will be filled by energetic individuals who will join a teaching faculty of 17 who share a vision to develop leaders for all segments of society that combine Christian values with solid business expertise.

Qualifications

The ideal Accounting candidate will have doctoral qualifications (Ph.D. in Accounting; DBA with Accounting emphasis; J.D. with MBA or MAcct). Finance candidates should be doctorally qualified in finance, however persons currently enrolled in doctoral studies will be considered. The ideal Management or Marketing candidate will have doctoral qualifications. Individuals who are currently engaged in doctoral studies will be considered. All candidates should have practical business experience, documented strong teaching skills, and an established or potentially successful publication record. In addition to a strong discipline background, coursework and/or professional experience in the areas of global business, diverse cultural settings and/or entrepreneurship will be helpful. Teaching load will include some combination of undergraduate, MBA and Doctor of Business Administration courses.

The George Fox School of Business is home to over 500 undergraduate, MBA and doctoral students. A strong student focus, a major emphasis on applied knowledge and an expectation that faculty members actively integrate their Christian faith with their business discipline characterize the School of Business.

History

Founded in Newberg, Ore., in 1891 by Friends pioneers, George Fox University has grown rapidly in the last two decades - both in academic reputation and size. The university is ranked by Forbes as one of the top colleges in the nation and highest among Christian colleges. It is the only Christian university in the Pacific Northwest classified as a national university by U.S. News & World Report.

National recognition also has come from the John Templeton Foundation, which selected George Fox as one of the 100 in its Honor Roll of Character-Building Colleges. The university now offers more than 40 undergraduate majors and graduate programs in psychology, counseling, education, business, ministry and religion. The undergraduate business program is one of the largest programs at the George Fox University Newberg campus. The MBA programs consist of an 11-month, full-time program at the Newberg campus, evening programs for working professionals at the Portland and Boise centers, and a doctor of business administration with management and marketing concentrations. In the past two decades the university's enrollment has quadrupled to more than 3,300 students.

George Fox University, a Christ-centered community, prepares students spiritually, academically, and professionally to think with clarity, act with integrity, and serve with passion. Professors teach all truth as God's truth, integrating all fields of learning around the person and work of Jesus Christ, bringing the divine revelations through sense, reason, and intuition to the confirming test of Scripture. All applicants must express a personal commitment to Jesus Christ and express their Christian testimony in a local church. In addition, professors agree to live in agreement with the university lifestyle statement and affirm the theological commitments expressed in the Statement of Faith. Individuals who would fit this profile are encouraged to apply for current openings in our faculty.

Salary and rank will be commensurate with education and professional experience. The contract year begins Aug. 15, 2010.
