

Lipscomb University is in the top 18 of Best Regional Universities-South category, according to the U.S. News and World Report's "2011 America's Best Colleges" guidebook. In 2010, Lipscomb University was identified as one of only 70 schools in the nation named as "Up-and-Coming." In 2009, U.S. News named Lipscomb's service-learning program as one of 25 "Programs to Look For" in the nation. Lipscomb University has more than 3,400 students and is located in Nashville, Tennessee, the nation's 27th largest city and ranked as one of the 5 friendliest cities in America.

The College of Business provides a faith-informed, dynamic learning environment that offers undergraduate majors in accounting, financial markets and financial management, information technology management, management (corporate management, entrepreneurship, human resource management, international business, social entrepreneurship, and sustainability management) and marketing. There are three graduate degrees, a MBA in both week-end and night formats, a Master of Accounting, a Masters in Human Resources, and courses and certificate programs through the School of Executive Education. The Dean Institute for Corporate Governance and Integrity was formed in the fall of 2008. The College of Business is a member of The Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business International (AACSB) and is a member of and is accredited by the Association of Collegiate Business Schools and Programs (ACBSP).

Faculty Positions for 2011-2012

Due to extraordinary growth in Graduate Business Programs, Lipscomb seeks qualified applicants for tenure-track faculty positions. Applicants should have an earned terminal degree in their field (ABD candidates will be considered). We seek those who have a passion to teach, a commitment to scholarship and who support the university's mission of integrating Christian faith and practice with academic excellence. Lipscomb has a strong association with the churches of Christ. Preference will be given to candidates who can be academically qualified (AQ) in accordance with AACSB International and active in their christian faith. Graduate level instruction will be an integral part of teaching assignments.

Accounting
Finance
Healthcare Management
Human Resource Management
Management Science
Marketing & New Media

Submit a letter of interest and vitae to Dr. Ray Eldridge • College of Business
Lipscomb University • One University Park Drive • Nashville, TN 37204-3951
ray.eldridge@lipscomb.edu 615-966-5946